

Party Idea to promote TupperLiving Towels

Call the hostess about 3days before her party to see how many guests are coming. Of course she doesn't know yet... Tell her you forgot to have her ask all her guests to bring their oldest, most worn out & worst dishtowel.

The hostess then has an excuse to call everyone she invited to see if they are coming and if so, to bring their oldest dishtowel.

The night of the party each guest shows their towel, introduces themselves and tells how long they have had the towel. The one with the towel that looks the worst wins the prize—"a new Dish Towel".

No real game to mess with, paper, etc and it fits right in with the launch of the new line of products.